Fall 2018 College-wide
Faculty Development Offerings

The Offices of Adjunct Services (ADJ), Center for Learning Excellence (CLE), and Leadership, Enrichment and Development (LEAD) are pleased to offer a wealth of professional development opportunities for full-time and adjunct faculty. These offices also collaborate with the offices of Online Learning and Academic Technology (OLAT), Curriculum Development, Learning Outcomes and Assessment, and Human Resources. For questions or suggestions for programming, click here to contact one of your campus representatives.

The Offices of Adjunct Services, Centers for Learning Excellence and Leadership, Enrichment and Development collaborate to produce campus specific programming and instructional support for all faculty. Each campus has a unique set of offerings, but all faculty are encouraged to attend sessions at any of the campuses. Faculty should register for each session in the Talent Engagement Center (TEC) within My Tri-C Space.

TEACHING

Everyday Lessons from the Science of Learning

JOSSEY-BASS

Lang is the author Small Teaching: Everyday Lessons from the Science of Learning. Research suggests that a small number of key principles can improve learning in almost any college or university course. These sessions will introduce some of those principles, offer practical suggestions for how they might improve teaching and learning, and consider how faculty might use them in their courses.

Mark your calendars for Thursday, Oct. 18, 2018 for a presentation from James Lang, author of Small Teaching: From Minor Changes to Major Learning.

Presentations:
8:30 - 10 a.m. at the Jerry Sue Thornton Center, Ford Room
11 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. at the Eastern Campus CLE, EMHC 100

Workshop:
3 - 5 p.m. at Western Campus, WSS G 4
